

TERMS OF REFERENCE:
CONSULTANT FOR BASELINE & ENDLINE STUDIES
IN ZANZIBAR AND PEMBA

I. CRID Overview

Communities Richer in Diversity (CRID) is a project initiated by a consortium of faith organisations and networks, namely, the Faith to Action Network (F2A), the Council of Anglican Provinces of Africa (CAPA), the African Council of Religious Leaders-Religion for Peace (ACRL-RfP), and the All Africa Conference of Churches (AACC). The project is funded by the European Union (EU) and aims at leveraging on the influence of faith leaders and institutions to promote cultural diversity and respect for equal dignity of all men and women in six African countries, Uganda, Kenya, Tanzania, Burundi, South Sudan and Egypt.

CRID plans to achieve its aims through interfaith and intercultural dialogue and cooperation. It plans to scale up interfaith and intercultural interventions that enhance the understanding, tolerance and respect for cultural and religious diversity among 12,200 young men and 12,200 young women at risk of radicalisation. The project will be implemented by six partners in the six countries.

CRID has already implemented technical assistance missions in all the six countries and the partners in the six countries have already been contracted and are implementing their projects. The proposed baseline surveys will be conducted as the grantees are implementing their projects.

The Anglican Diocese of Zanzibar (ADZ) has been implementing the project in Unguja and Pemba since October 2018.

III. Purpose of the Baseline

The purpose of the baseline study is to determine qualitatively and quantitatively the current situation in relation to the main elements of the project amongst the stakeholders and beneficiaries in Unguja and Pemba. The survey will establish the baseline for the project's key indicators and will provide the benchmarks to measure the project performance. The baseline survey is primarily intended to generate knowledge on interfaith approaches to promote pluralism and counter radicalisation of young people, and will be the basis for case studies and knowledge generation. Additionally, the baseline survey will be conducted while the partner is implementing the project and will be used to facilitate monitoring and evaluation (M&E) of the project. Most aspects of its findings will be published and disseminated in different forms of knowledge products.

IV. Methodology and Scope of Work

The baseline study design and methodology will be discussed and agreed with the project team and with the implementing partners at the beginning of the consultancy. The consultant will use different data collecting methods: desk review, direct observation, quantitative survey, interviews, and focus group discussions, to establish a baseline for the project's key indicators. There are two categories of indicators. Standard indicators have been developed by the CRID team and will cut across all six countries. Specific indicators will be tailored for each project location in each country. The study methodology will be as follows:

- ❖ Preparatory phase: The consultant will receive the key documents of the project. S/he will adapt standard questionnaires developed centrally by Faith to Action Network (F2A) for the quantitative surveys, interviews and focus groups discussions. The consultant will then develop context-specific questions in collaboration with the partner and the baseline supervisor. The consultant will do a desk review of all documentation and prepare a work plan in consultation with the baseline supervisor.

- ❖ Finalise methodology of the study: The consultant will finalise plans including
 - (a) Choice of the sample size;
 - (b) Adapt the questionnaires for the focus group discussions;
 - (c) Adapt questionnaire for qualitative survey;
 - (d) Adapt questionnaire for quantitative survey;
 - (e) Plan for data coding, entry and analysis;
 - (f) Validation of the methodology by CRID team;
 - (g) Submit study design for ethical approval

- ❖ Field work: Field work will take place in Unguja and Pemba. During the field work, and with the support of the project team and ADZ, the consultant will pre-test the questionnaire, collect data, collate and enter data.

- ❖ Data entry & Analysis: The consultant will analyse the collected data, using an agreed format.

- ❖ Draft report: The consultant will produce the first draft of the report using F2A's format. The report must be submitted in English within seven days after completion of field work.

- ❖ Final report: The consultant will produce the final draft of the report, taking into consideration two rounds of comments from CRID team and the partner. In addition, to the written report, CRID will encourage creative ways to present the findings, including using audio visual materials.

V. Final Report

The final report will be written in English and will be maximum 40 pages long (excluding the annexes). It must include the following sections:

- (a) Title page
- (b) Acknowledgement
- (c) Table of contents
- (d) Glossary/ Acronyms
- (e) Executive summary (2 pages)
- (f) Introduction
- (g) Objectives & rationale of the baseline study
- (h) Methodology and limits to the methodology
- (i) Findings & Analysis of the main results
- (j) An updated project monitoring and evaluation matrix with a summary of each indicator's baseline data.
- (k) Conclusions
- (l) Recommendations
- (m) Annexes

VI. Time Frame

The consultancy will be completed within 15 days within the month of January 2019. The consultant must ensure that the whole process of the survey work that includes preparation, development of the survey tools, testing and reviewing of the tools, actual field work, data analysis, dissemination of the key findings to CRID and reviewing of the final report can be completed within this time frame. The consultant will submit a work plan and specific dates will be agreed at the beginning of the consultancy. A draft report will be submitted at the end of data collection and CRID will have a maximum of 2 weeks to submit two rounds of comments on the baseline report. The final report must take into consideration the comments made by CRID.

VII. Consultant Management

The consultant will report to CRID's Knowledge Management Adviser. At the field level, the consultant will also report to the Knowledge Management Adviser.

VIII. Confidentiality and Authorship

Ownership and copyright of all data, drafts and final products of the survey will be the sole and exclusive property of CRID. The consultant will submit all original documents, materials and data to CRID. Therefore, all the outputs of the survey will not be disseminated in part or whole without express authority from CRID's Knowledge Management Adviser. The consultant shall not produce information in these materials in any form (electronic, hard copies, etc.) to a third party without a written permission from CRID.

IX. Required Skills, Experiences and Competences
